Master's Message

Brethren: We live in a unique time in our history (of course). It's unique, because it is our time...not our parents...not our grandparents...and certainly not our children's. It is for us...our unique moment in history. I bring this to your attention for a very important reason: We are all moving on the battlefield of life and it is our brethren who we must look out for, knowing that he is also looking out for us. You who have served in the military certainly know what I'm talking about. We Americans are a team that works together for the betterment of all Americans. We allow mistakes and we allow success. We encourage diversity. We pick our fellow man up when they fall down. Again I say...this is a unique time in our history...when there is a very good chance that you know someone who is in need. Are you reaching out? Are you offering to lend a helping hand? A lot of people need help these days and I hope that we are all being good Mason's and doing our part. And, knowing how proud many of us are, we should encourage our friends and family to ask for help if they need it.

Fraternally yours, Jim Patrick PM .

I paid a visit to Frank Keithley the other day. He is doing well for 102 ½. If you want to read an article from the Napa Valley Register from December 2005 when he was 99; go to the following link:
